

These checkboxes are fillable. Open this PDF in Preview, Acrobat, or your browser and click any box to tick it. Save to keep your progress.

BUDGET BREAKDOWN

WHAT PRO VISUALS ACTUALLY COST (AND WHY)

As an independent artist planning your own visual shoots, it can seem impossible to get transparent pricing, clarity on what you actually need, what it actually costs, and why. This document changes all of that.

4i RECORDS UPDATED SEPT 2026 FOUR BUDGET TIERS

We lay out what filmmaking personnel, equipment, and post-production you can afford and expect according to your budget.

THE FOUR BUDGET TIERS

TIER 1	TIER 2	TIER 3	TIER 4
NO BUDGET	SMALL BUDGET	MEDIUM BUDGET	BIG BUDGET
$0 – $500	$500 – $4,000	$4,000 – $10,000	$10,000 +

If you're here, we're going to assume you fall into the first three categories, but 4i Productions can help you no matter what budget you're working with.

Three things every music video needs: an artist, a camera, and an editor. You can be all three.

Here's how that looks.

Tier 1 NO BUDGET

- ☐ Filmed on iPhone or camera at home
- ☐ Edited by yourself with tutorials and free assets you can find online (like 4irecords.com/resources)
- ☐ Grab a friend to film for you, or set up a tripod
- ☐ Get super creative and have fun

If you're operating with a bit more money, you can get other creatives involved who want to work on passion projects for their portfolio. Collaborating with other talented independent creatives can increase the production value and make production go by way more smoothly.

Tier 2 SMALL BUDGET

- ☐ Get together a crew of volunteer filmmakers and use the equipment you can find or afford
- ☐ Set up a real shoot day with crafty on set
- ☐ Edit yourself, or find a volunteer editor
- ☐ Minimal lighting, camera, costume, and location, sourced through sites like Facebook Marketplace and Peerspace see the resource list below

At this stage, you can wear fewer hats and have fun with a more experienced group of creative professionals while keeping other costs (location, costumes, etc.) lower — or spend more budget on more expensive equipment with fewer people involved. It depends on your level of comfort, knowledge, and experience with filmmaking.

Tier 3 MEDIUM BUDGET

- ☐ Hire a real DP and director with a good camera and lighting package
- ☐ Secure some locations at a well-priced day rate
- ☐ Secure volunteer filmmakers and extra actors who can help on set at a discounted rate
- ☐ Hire an editor to cut the finished video, and/or cut clips for social media promotion
- ☐ Hire a professional BTS photographer or videographer so you have great content for socials
- ☐ Splurge on costumes, maybe a makeup artist
- ☐ Make sure you're following permit and filming laws in your local area

At this level, you can realize a grand-scale vision with lots of qualified professionals to handle the logistics of planning and executing your visual music project.

Tier 4 BIG BUDGET

- ☐ Experienced professional director
- ☐ Professional assistant director to keep the shoot running smoothly
- ☐ Director of photography with a professional camera package
- ☐ Other camera operators for multicam shooting
- ☐ Catering and crafty for grip and lighting crew
- ☐ Professional set design and lighting equipment
- ☐ Location, prop, and costume rentals
- ☐ Makeup artists

WHAT ARE EXPECTED RATES?

For production roles, most creatives charge via day rate — the amount of money they'll want per day of shooting. If you only shoot for one day, you pay them for one day, but most large-scale music videos shoot for two days or more.

What you can expect:

- Professional DP or director — day rates range from $200 (someone starting out that you struck a deal with) to $1,000+ (working professionals).
- Camera package — you can rent a great camera for a few hundred dollars a day, but keep in mind that to get the beautiful cinematic shots you want, you'll also need to rent the specific lenses, lighting equipment, and silks or screens to achieve the look.
- Grip and gaff crew — you'll want people on set to move lights, set up safe rigging, help operate equipment, or even just hold lights by hand for guerilla setups. The day rate for gaff and grip crew varies by budget tier: $100 to $2,000 is a low-end to high-end range.
- Assistant directors — the same range applies. ADs are very helpful for managing the flow and scheduling of crew, and tracking shot list and coverage progress.
- Editors charge hourly or per project, not by the day. An entry-level editor doing this project for a portfolio credit could charge a couple hundred dollars for a finished music video, or could charge hourly. Editor hourly rates range from $20 to $200+ an hour.

DAY RATE RANGES
DP / DIRECTOR PER DAY		$200 - $1,000+	GRIP & GAFF CREW PER DAY, EACH
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR PER DAY		$100 - $2,000	CAMERA PACKAGE PER DAY, W/ LENSES
EDITOR PER HOUR		$20 - $200+	EDITOR, PER PROJECT PORTFOLIO-RATE FLOOR

PRO TIP

4i Productions works with creatives in Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, and New York, and editors from all around the world, to get you the best rates for your project in any budget tier.

GET YOUR FREE QUOTE TODAY →

WHERE TO GET THE MOST BANG FOR YOUR BUCK

1 LIGHTING

A lot of people think a more expensive camera equals better production value, but it's not true. Most filmmakers will agree the best investment you can make is in lighting — or in creative professionals who are trained to see and arrange shots according to natural lighting.

PRO TIP

This music video was shot on an iPhone for $60 — the cost of an iPhone stabilizer from Amazon.

Even if you can't afford expensive lights, training the eye to see composition and good lighting helps elevate the perceived production value of your visual project dramatically. In that case, hiring an experienced DP may be worth it even without an expensive camera or lighting package.

2 EDITING

Others might argue your best investment is in editing. Taking even poorly-lit iPhone footage and adding color grading, graphics, and some VFX in post can make your visuals look intentional and creative. Editing is also where you have the most creative freedom to try new visual directions, hooks, effects, and more.

3

CREATIVITY

One thing that money can't buy: creativity, passion, and authenticity. A music video at any budget can be an incredible piece of art by being an honest expression of you, the artist. Remember to enjoy the process — the best music video is one made by you, with the tools you have available, while authentically expressing yourself.

It can be overwhelming to watch hours and hours of filmmaking and editing tutorials. If you'd rather focus on making music, 4i Productions works with talented editors all over the world to get you the most qualified editor for the job at a price that fits within your budget.

GET YOUR FREE QUOTE TODAY →

BUILD YOUR OWN BUDGET

With all that said, here's a fillable production table that works at any budget. Pick an option for each role and mix and match to see what your project would actually run.

PRODUCTION NEED	A - DO IT YOURSELF	B - DISCOUNTED / EMERGING	C - HIRE A PROFESSIONAL
DIRECTOR	A Self-direct, or a friend cheap/free $0	B Experienced indie filmmaker, discounted $200-500	C Hire a professional $500-1,250
DP	A Friend films you, or set up a tripod $0	B DP taking it on as a portfolio builder $200-500	C Hire a professional $1,000-1,800
GAFF & GRIP	A Skip entirely $0	B Film students or enthusiastic techs $100-400	C Hire professionals $400-2,000
AD	A Do it yourself $0	B Someone at a discounted rate $100-300	C Hire a professional $300-800

LIGHTING	A Natural light, or what you have $0	B Cheap rental house, or second-hand $50–250	C Professional lighting package $300–1,200
CAMERA	A Phone or camera you own $0	B Library, student house, cheap rental $0–150	C Professional camera package $300–800
EDITING	A Yourself, or a friend free/discounted $0	B 4i Productions artist rate $200–600	C Pro editor, years of experience $800–2,500
BALLPARK PER SHOOT DAY All A $0 All B $850 – 3,300 All C $3,300 – 10,350

AUTOCALCULATE

Open 4i-budget-estimator.xlsx in this folder — pick A, B or C per role and the total calculates itself. Or use the live version at 4irecords.com/resources/what-pro-visuals-cost.

FREE & CHEAP ARTIST RESOURCES

Where to actually find the locations, gear, crew, and assets referenced above.

RESOURCE	WHAT IT'S FOR	COST
LOCATIONS	Peerspace — hourly rentals of studios, homes, lofts, warehouses	Hourly, varies
	Giggster — film-specific location marketplace, built for productions	Hourly or daily
	Facebook Marketplace & local groups — direct-message owners of spaces you've spotted	Negotiable
	Your city or county film office — permits, and often free public locations	Free to low permit fee

RESOURCE	WHAT IT'S FOR	COST
GEAR	Your public library — many lend cameras, lenses, tripods, and lights	Free
	ShareGrid — peer-to-peer camera and lighting rental from local owners	Daily, below rental-house rates
	Fat Llama — peer-to-peer rental for gear of all kinds	Daily
	Your local film school — student equipment checkout if you or a crew member is enrolled	Free to students
	Craigslist — discounted second-hand gear, and local open calls for crew	Varies
CREW & CAST	Film school Facebook and Discord groups — where students look for portfolio work	Free to discounted
	Actors Access — casting calls, free to post	Free to post
	Backstage / Mandy — casting and crew calls	Posting fee
	Your own socials — a crew call post is the highest-yield thing on this list	Free
POST & ASSETS	4irecords.com/resources — free editing assets: hand-drawn scribbles, graffiti PNGs	Free
	Pexels , Pixabay , Freesound — free stock footage, stills, and sound design	Free

FILMMAKER VOCAB

DP	Director of Photography — also called the videographer or cinematographer. Runs the camera and the look of the image.
AD	Assistant Director — the person who runs scheduling, the shot list, and crew management.
CLT	Chief Lighting Technician — the head gaffer, the person in charge of lighting. A very important art form; works closely with the DP to make your shots look good.
GAFFER	The electrician who builds and runs the lighting setup under the CLT or DP.
GUERILLA	Shooting fast, small, and mobile — minimal gear, minimal crew, often without permits or a locked location. A style, not a compromise.
RIGGING	The hardware and setup that holds lights, cameras, and grip equipment safely in place — stands, clamps, trusses, mounts. Bad rigging is the most common way people get hurt on a set.

GRIP	Crew who rig and move everything that shapes or supports light and camera — stands, flags, silks, dollies.
DAY RATE	What a crew member charges per day of shooting, regardless of hours. The standard unit for production roles.
CAMERA PACKAGE	The camera plus everything it needs to actually shoot — lenses, media cards, batteries, monitor, support.
SILKS & SCREENS	Fabric and reflective panels used to soften, bounce, or block light. Cheap, and they do more for your image than a better camera.
CRAFTY	The snack and drink table on set. Not optional — a fed crew works better and comes back.
CALL SHEET	The document sent out before a shoot day with times, locations, contacts, and who's needed when.
BTS	Behind the scenes — footage and stills of the shoot itself, which becomes most of your social content.
COLOR GRADING	The post-production pass that sets the final look and mood of the footage.
VFX	Visual effects — anything added or altered in post that wasn't in front of the camera.
COVERAGE	The set of angles and takes you shoot for a moment, so the editor has options to cut with.

4i PRODUCTIONS IS HERE TO HELP AT ANY STEP OF THE PROCESS

Whether you need some quick social clips edited or the whole production process taken care of, we'll find the best quote for you as an independent artist on a limited budget.

GET A FREE QUOTE →

4i Records — 4 artists. 4 fans. 4 good.

Need help with any part of the process? 4i Productions · 4iproductions.com · get a free quote.

Rates are 2026 market estimates, not quotes.